Sherman:BattleoftheBulge For this reason, the US Army believed that the M4 would be adequate to win the war, and relatively little pressure was initially exerted for further tank development. These saw action in the latest phases of the conflict in Europe and in the Pacific. As exemplified in modern main battle tank systems, the bow gunner's position has been removed altogether, with self-defense handled by the gunner, loader or commander and their applicable machine guns while ranging is handled by complex laser ranging systems.
