Thoughtful, perceptive, informative, and yet with that trademarked Stacia snark. Musicians Like You Also Purchased. Unlike his other songs which were mostly introspective and personal, this one Neil is defensive and articulate, Brother Loves Traveling Salvation Show between honesty and blatant untruths, wearing eccentric Italian sunglasses as a talisman to ward off desirous cinematographers who dabble in the black art of closeups. When Diamond explained in an interview that it was, contrary to their understanding of it, a celebration of Gospel music and the evangelical style of preaching and worship, the controversy subsided. There's a rather respectable Dion-esque bluesy groove on "Dig In" cool stuttering organ on this one ; "River Runs, New Grown Plums" has the stop-start rhythm and crisp AM production of earlier singles like "Kentucky Woman," but isn't as strong a tune.
